Montevideo 26.

Papers head and ears in the Misiones question again this morning.

Sarmiento arrived. Rough passage. Nobody eat a bit at dinner but himself. Port Captain sent 'falua' for him, and several notabilities met him on the Mole.

Castro will be named Minister of Worship to-night, and Castellanos of Government.

THE BOCA FOR EVER!

The greatest event of the day is the entry at the Boca of a European steamer, the Italia, with over 500 emigrants on board. The sight was indeed worthy of all the pageantry the Government could lend it, and the elder foreign residents of the Boca, who remember what that locality was some 10 or 15 years ago, had ample opportunity of measuring the great progress of this country in this simple event. Men who remember the Boca little better than a ditch, where, when the tide was high, the richer class of Barracas residents watered their horses, might have well stared at the fine steamer Italia entering from Europe with her decks crowded from stem to stern with immigrants. All the wharves and moles of the Boca were crowded with people who cheered the steamer as she passed up; the sight was the grandest ever witnessed in the Boca. It was for that locality what the return of the troops from Egypt was for London.

As there was much of an experiment in getting so large a steamer into the Riachuelo, the agents of the steamer had chartered two small steamers and three steam lighters to be in readiness either to help her in, or to be at hand in case of any accident; but they were not needed. At 10 a.m. the Italia left her anchorage in the roads and steered straight for the Boca. The people in the Paseo Julio and on the Passenger Mole could hardly believe their eyes when they saw the large European steamer making for the Boca, and the matter, in maritime circles, caused some anxiety.

At half-past 11 o'clock the Italia was alongside the Mole in the Boca, in front of the 'Resguardo,' in the same place where the Villarino usually lies; and there she hauled to, having entered the Boca channel with 21 feet of water, and passed up without the slightest 'contretemps' or difficulty.

The Italia is of 1000 tons burden and 98 metres long. She had on board, besides 500 tons cargo, 573 Italian immigrants, who were landed from the steamer on the wharf and taken up to town without a moment's delay, or the least expense, in the tramway. The cars were crowded one after the other with these new arrivals, who all found a welcome, with free board and lodging, at the "Asilo de Inmigrantes."

The crowds that lined the banks of the Riachuelo as the Italian steamer entered cheered her to the echo; and we certainly think that in commemoration of so important an event the National Government ought to reward Captain P. Certeza, the Commander, and Signor Piaggio, the agent of the steamer, each with a free estancia grant of four square leagues on the Rio Negro.

In any other country pioneers of a new trade, pregnant with such great results, would be rewarded by Government; and if President Roca cannot make Sr. Piaggio a peer or a baronet, at least he can give him a few leagues down in the far South whereon to start a new Italian Colony.

Let it be recorded that it is an Italian steamer that has shown all the other European steamers the way into the Boca.

Italia! Oh Italia! thou who hast
The fatal gift of beauty.

The Boca is par excellence Italian, and fully 4/5ths of those who cheered the entry of the steamer were of that nationality; and since the Italian steamer has led the way, we may soon expect to see other European steamers follow. We certainly envy Mr Huergo's feelings of satisfaction at witnessing this crowning success to his life's dream and enterprize; and we have no doubt that under his experienced and competent direction the Riachuelo Improvement Works will be steadily carried on until the Outer Roads be abolished, and every European steamer plying with the Plate has its own wharf on the Riachuelo.

The immigrants who arrived in the Italia were landed under such remarkably favorable circumstances that they seem to be a chosen people. They had no transhipment to the little steamer, no jumping into the lighter, no trumbling into a horse cart, but were landed with the same conveniences as if the steamer entered the Thames and ran alongside St. Catherine's wharf, London. Immigrants landing in this country under such very favorable circumstances are predestined to the fullest success; their career in this country will not be moistened by disagreeable first impressions, so difficult to overcome, even in after years, by the most shining prosperity. Fortune, it seems, has taken this chosen band of 573 Italians by the hand and led them over the gangway from their steamer to the happy shores of their adopted country. We for one believe that the more we facilitate the way into the country, the more we secure increased immigration; even whilst we write, a telegram comes to hand telling us that, precisely at the same hour that the Italia was entering the Boca, two other Italian steamers were leaving Genoa with 1100 more emigrants for this country. Thrice happy news; and as the Italia came up the Boca channel, she met the steamer Bahia Blanca, going out with 200 'peones,' all hired for the railway works in the far South. Such movemen shows life and vitality worth all the throngs at Palermo or ring crowd at the Bolsa. The Boca is becoming the great national pulse, and every dollar spent by the Government on its dredging and its improvement is money well spent, and which will repay the country one hundredfold. Meanwhile we hope President Roca will endear himself to the Italian flag by presenting Mr Piaggio and the Captain with free estancias on the Rio Negro.

BY SEA AND LAND.

Under this heading letters appeared in this paper some few years ago, giving mems of a home trip. In one of those letters some remarks as to the extent of land under deer in Ireland and Scotland, to the prejudice of the people and the nation, gave rise to a criticism that may now be forgotten. We well remember that the first night we stopped in Glasgow two parties offered us shooting lodges in the Highlands for the season, which we, of course, declined no matter how moderate the rent. We now find in Land and Water our own views on this same question and give the article with all the greater satisfaction that so high an authority should endorse our sentiments:—

The maxim that a man may no more do that which is wrong with "his own" than with that which is another's, is, like the majority of generalities, very frequently inapplicable. Indeed, these adages carried to their logical conclusion are almost always found to be very misleading in everyday matters.

This question as to the liberty of action with regard to one's own property has of late been the cause of considerable discussion in connection with the increase of the area devoted to the deer forests of Scotland. A great deal has been written on the subject of the wrongs inflicted on the shepherds and crofters by their losing their occupations in consequence of their "native heath" being turned into a forest, to the exclusion of every living thing else except deer. It is often urged, too, that this extension of deer forests is a wasteful use of land, and seriously diminishes the national supply of food.

On Tuesday night last, in the House of Commons, Mr McFarlane asked Mr Gladstone if he would grant a return of the area of land converted from sheepwalks into deer forests in islands and highlands of Scotland since 1831, and the number of persons and families removed for that purpose, and on failing to obtain a satisfactory reply stated that he should make a motion next session on the subject.

This question appears to have been immediately instigated by an action brought by the American millionaire, Mr Winans, against Mr McKenzie, of Kintail, to compel him to remove certain crofters and shepherds from the estate of Kintail, which Mr Winans had taken on a lease of 21 years, for the purpose of converting it into a deer forest.

Reading between the lines of Mr McFarlane's remarks and notice of motion, we think we are not far wrong in assuming that the object thereof is to draw forth as reliable information as can be obtained regarding this extension of deer forests, in the highlands of Scotland, in its bearing on the national food supply.

The most important condition necessary for the success of a deer forest is solitude; the presence of shepherds and crofters pursuing their daily avocations on the grounds tends to make them restless and to wander off the forest; while the actual sport of stalking is rendered most difficult and disappointing by the effects produced on the deer by the movements of sheep, which act as a warning to the former when the stalker approaches. As a consequence, sheepwalks and Highland farming are antagonistic to deer forests, and no laird can hope to realise a good rent for his forest unless it be given up exclusively to the antlered monarch.

There are tens of thousands of acres of moorland in Scotland consisting of what is known as "plough ground," and sterile, stony, bald mountain ridges, which cannot at any time yield sufficient herbage to support sheep, but on which deer can manage to pick up sufficient for their subsistence. Interspersed among these weary wastes are sometimes a few spots where occasional crofters and shepherds manage to rub along with their patches of oats and a few head of cattle and sheep. The rent-roll of such estates as these is by no means a princely one at any time; but the remarkable depression in the agricultural interest that has now for five or six years befallen us, and which was brought about mainly by the "free-trade" principles which modern Liberalism has introduced into the country, has tended to fine them down to an almost "irreducible minimum."

The unfortunate lairds who find themselves in this plight naturally look about them for a better market for their property, and find one ready to hand in enthusiastic deer-stalkers with long purses. These latter are ready to take these wastes, which, although they will carry flocks of sheep yielding a larger food supply than could be obtained from deer occupying the same area, will realise for the proprietor a higher rental if let as a deer forest than if devoted to sheep. Indeed, we believe that with these moorland sheepwalks the proprietors can realise for them from 15 to 20 per cent. more rental if turned into deer ground.

Seeing the plight landlords are now in, is it unreasonable that they should dispose of what they have to offer in the best market? It certainly is only human, and we believe that one of the fundamental principles so strongly advocated in these days is to buy in the cheapest market and sell in the dearest, irrespective of the commodity offered or the nationality of the vendor or purchaser.

Regarding the area in Scotland devoted to deer forests, we ourselves have not got any reliable statistics at hand, but Mr. Macdonald, in a letter on the subject to a Scotch paper, furnished some interesting particulars relating thereto:

The following is believed to be the extent of the deer forests in Scotland:—

| | Acres. |
|---|---|
| Caithness | 25,000 |
| Sutherland | 130,000 |
| Ross | 190,000 |
| Inverness | 260,000 |
| Argyle | 220,000 |
| Banff | 30,000 |
| Aberdeen | 175,000 |
| Perth | 255,000 |
| Forfar | 35,000 |
| | 1,320,000 |

We have, then, 1,320,000 acres of deer-forest, and these let at about 1s. 1d. per acre giving an annual rent of ... £71,500 0 0

And the same ground for sheep only lets at 10d. per acre, which would represent a rent of ... 55,000 0 0

£16,500 0 0

Here are £16,500 of annual revenue in favour of the proprietors, accruing from letting portions of their estates as deer preserves. But now for the other, the national side of the question.

According to the given averages these forests produce 8,800 stags and hinds. On the other hand, we find that 9,500 acres of these counties carry 3,366,000 sheep; and taking three years as the average age of all sheep, there result 156,000 Cheviots and black-faced that could be reared and killed annually on the same area as that occupied by the deer forests.

SHEEP.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 156,000 60 lb each, at 8d | | £312,000 |
| 300,000 fleeces (deducting lambs), at 2s | | 30,000 |
| 150,000 at 5s | | 39,000 |
| | | £381,000 |

DEER.

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 8,800 stags and hinds, 140 lbs each, at 6d | £30,800 | |
| 8,800 stags' and hinds' skins, at 3s. 6d | 1,540 | |
| 8,800 stags' and hinds' heads, averaging 12s. | 5,280 | |
| | | 37,620 |
| | | £343,380 |

"Deer versus Sheep," then, shows a gain of £16,500 annually in favour of the proprietors, and a yearly loss of £343,380 to the nation. If the proprietor lets for sheep he has a very reduced and uncertain rental; if for deer, he gets an improved rental and certain payment, and so the matter stands.—Land and Water.

IMPROVED CATTLE BREEDING.

Nothing can be more satisfactory for those who take an interest in the future of this country than the steady importation and constant auction sales of the best Durham and Hereford bulls. A few years ago this trade was so small it hardly needed the agency of the auctioneer; to-day it is a business in itself, many parties being exclusively engaged in the purchase of English bulls and cows for this market.

The Provincial Government has established a stud farm at Santa Catalina, and Mr Frias and others have now magnificent 'rodeos' of the very best English breed of cows. All over the country the mestizo cows and bulls are now to be found, and rare is the 'rodeo' in which some fine short horns are not seen.

It would seem from the following paper, sent us by an American gentleman for publication, that they are doing in Texas and other states the same as ourselves, and that all the great estancieros out there are improving the breeds of their cattle at a no inconsiderable expense.

Farmers and estancieros will read with much interest the subjoined paper:—

The following interesting account of the improvement which is rapidly taking place in the cattle of the western plains of the United States is abridged from a communication to the Dairy and Farm Journal (U. S. A.) by Mr Eli Elliot, who writes from Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, in September last.

Mr Elliot says that the improvement of cattle on these ranges is a matter of greatest surprise to everyone visiting these immense grazing grounds (where a few years ago the buffalo, elk, deer and antelope had full and undisputed possession, and where a little later the wanton destruction of them by the white settlers was so much lamented by the people and the Press) now roam thousands and thousands of domestic cattle. At first they were the commonest that Wyoming markets have any knowledge of, being driven from the poorer grazing grounds of Texas, and were only the foundation for something better than the buffalo; they have any amount of vigour and constitution, have all the good points to make something better out of that the hardy root has to graft tenderer and better fruit upon. On their introduction the only improvement made was wholly due to an improved climate and much better grazing, together with their exemption from flies, gnats and mosquitos; so that an improvement began before the introduction of any better blood, for at that time the Texas bull was the only kind used. But a little later cattle began to come east from Oregon and Utah, and they were mostly what is here termed "common American cattle," to distinguish them from Spanish or Texas cattle, and the bulls so introduced caused the first improvement upon the thoroughbred Texan. Still the percentage of such bulls as came from the East was so small as compared to the whole number, that they only demonstrated what improvement might be made by their more universal use, which the owners of herds were now not slow to discover. Seeing the improvement thus made, some of them went or sent east into the States and got some grades of the different beef-producing breeds and turned them loose on the range, but by the time they got them there the expense was very heavy. Many of them died from change and exposure, and the man who bought them and turned them out got no more benefit from them than did his neighbours, who were still keeping nothing better than Texans. As a consequence the improvement went on slowly, but as the advantage of extra size and quality became more and more apparent from the use of improved bulls, ranchmen were more anxious to buy better breeding bulls, and at last the fact of a Texas bull being on the range was regarded as a nuisance. When the great majority of the ranchmen came to regard the Texan as a nuisance they removed him, as in the case of other nuisances, and by consent he was castrated on sight, regardless of the brand he wore. Then improvement began in earnest, for the Texas bulls had to be replaced with something, and of course it was something better, although in many cases it was common Americans. But soon they wanted grades, either Shorthorn or Hereford mostly, and, seeing their marked improvement, some who have isolated ranges and get the full use of the bulls they turn out have bought thoroughbreds by the car load and even by the hundred head, and turned them on their ranges. That, together with the influx of American cows from Oregon and other places west, has produced a class of steers that weigh at three years old from two hundred and fifty to four hundred pounds more than the original Texan at the same age, and will sell for a cent to two cents and a-half per pound gross more than the Texan, and can be grazed or fed in the corn producing sections at a profit to the feeder. Many of these cattle have been so improved that they can be fully ripened up on corn and make a weight of 1,500 to 1,800 pounds gross, with quality fit for the exporter. With cattle raised as far north as Sun river, Montana, than which, however, there is no better grazing region on plain or mountain slope, this whole country—taking the United Pacific railroad as the southern boundary, though there is much good grazing south of that line and near at hand, and extending east well into Dakota and north as far as the British possessions, and west to the Pacific—is, with few exceptions, one rich pasture field on which hundreds of thousands of cattle and horses roam at will, living on the rich pastures summer and winter, costing but little time and expense to the owner in looking after them. And there is plenty of room for hundreds of thousands more, for as the buffalo drops out, as he is very fast doing, his place will be supplied with horses and cattle that will live and do well on any place where he has flourished. The two Indian reservations in Montana, which are the finest regions in it, and equal in extent to the States of New York and Massachusetts, must soon be in the hands of the white man, and on their rich pastures will roam thousands of domestic animals, showing the inevitable survival of the fittest.

CHRONICLES OF LITTLE PEDDLINGTON.

VIII.

The Two Financiers. "Look here upon this picture, and on this." A man of fence, who never gives offence. A Rival of Henry Irving.

When Mr Martin Chuzzlewit, junior, and his faithful henchman Mark Tapley, were prosecuting their adventurous expedition through the U. States of America, they were continually being astonished at the number of prominent citizens of the Republic to whom their chance acquaintances were so obliging as to call their attention. Strolling in fancy through our little village, the chronicler finds himself in like manner perpetually struck by the large proportion of those of the inhabitants whose characters and position entitle them to be reckoned as principal personages in our little community. Like to those armies of petty principalities in which the rank and file are conspicuous by their paucity; and the staff is out of all proportion to the requirements of the service, our society is blessed with an exceeding large quantity of representative men; in so much that the chronicler is already beginning to fear that he has attempted a task which will eventually overtax, not only his powers of description, but also the patience and long suffering of his readers.

Among other financial institutions existing in Little Peddlington are the local branches of two Metropolitan Banks. The presiding deities of these establishments contrast so egregiously the one with the other, that a sketch of the respective individuals becomes a very tempting subject to that patriotic pen which is devoting itself to the immortalizing of our public men; and if the courteous reader finds upon perusal that full justice has not been done to so interesting a theme—(and indeed the chronicler apprehends that he will not at any rate be able to satisfy himself)—be it remembered that there are in this sublunary world of ours no few characters so many-sided and varicoloured as to baffle the correct delineation, even of the most experienced and appreciative critic.

Let us step into the private room of the manager of the Metropolitan and Silver River Bank. Passing through a spacious counter-encircled outer office, we enter the manager's waiting room; and thence, at his bidding, ascending a short flight of stairs, we find ourselves in the presence of the great financier, whose portly presence and suave and cordial manners inspire us at once with the fullest confidence that any little request for accommodation which we have it in our minds to prefer will be accorded as soon as uttered. Vainest of vain delusions! Sphynx-like in the impenetrability of his countenance, which, without losing one particle of its bland expression, is so carefully controlled as to afford no indication of the judgment which the shrewd and ready instinct of the man of business is passing upon our application, he listens with unfailing courtesy to our statement; and then proceeds, with all the quiet and ruthless dexterity of the practised anatomist, to expose the absolute inadequacy of our arguments, and the impossibility of his sanctioning the interposition of any of the resources at his command in our favour. And however completely and irrecoverably our hopes may have been demolished, the refusal is couched in a flow of language, and with an abundance of reasoning, so overpowering and so irrefutable, and at the same time so void of offence, that we even feel grateful to the magnanimity which has spared us the shafts of ridicule, and the cudgelling of contempt. None but an expert in the art of fence can parry with simultaneous grace and vigour the attack of a persistent opponent. The brute strength of an inexperienced swordsman may beat down the thrusts that are directed against him by his adversary; but only the cunning of a master of the foil can disarm and frustrate, without show of distress, the impetuosity of an impassioned assailant. With no less skill than this does our financier deal with unfortunate and inconvenient applicants; while to clients against whom there is no need to exercise precaution, his affability and obligingness render all the more profound their admiration of his capacity and clearsightedness.

For the rest, kindhearted and of abundant hospitality; on terms of intimate friendship with the Emperor of Barataria and his Ministers, and their companion on all those festive occasions with which the Imperial Court seeks to divert its attention from the cares of Government; a convivial host, thoroughly initiated in all the essentials of entertainment; and with all the epicurean knowledge required to elevate him to a principal pedestal among the disciples of Brillat-Savarin; possessed not only of the instinct of charity but with the means to gratify that instinct, he is recognised in our society as the worthy representative of the important interests of which he is in charge. An over partiality to the Philistines around us, which is the only accusation that detraction can bring against him, may well be accounted for by the conscientiousness of his attachment to those interests, which, as it is easy to understand, necessitate the cultivation and maintenance of the most friendly intercourse with the powers that be.

The pendant to this portrait has now to be painted. The establishment over which he presides does not present the same outward magnificence as that which we have just quitted; the principal operations of the Metropolitan Firm of which it is a branch being carried on in a neighbouring country. Our Manager has been invested by nature with a demeanour and appearance very different from his colleague. Tall and somewhat spare in form; quiet and undemonstrative in language and manner; thoroughly versed in the arcana of his profession; retiring in his habits and mode of life; strict even to apparent asceticism; discreet and reserved in conversation; averse to gossip and tittle tattle; an exemplary pater familias, and a regular attendant at the Village Church, it would be difficult to discover among all our householders a more modest, and at the same time a more admirable model of a virtuous citizen.

But it must not be imagined that the gravity and seriousness of our respected bank manager are unrelieved by tinges of a lighter and brighter hue. Our friend is no kill joy; no gloomy preacher of the doctrine of total abstention from worldly enjoyment; no rigid votary of that form of religion which inspires its adherents with a rabid desire to suppress every species of innocent amusement, and which vents itself in protests in the public prints against theatrical performances for religious and charitable purposes; putting on the garb of a puritanical fanaticism as a cloak under which to deal an insolent and irrational blow against a singleminded and laborious prelate. No such doubtful morality animates the subject of this sketch. Witness his own appearance not many months ago at one of our Village entertainments, and his successful declamation of one of the most intricate passages that ever poet devised to test the powers of articulation, intonation, and expression. No member of the crowded audience which upon that occasion listened with rapt attention to the bell-like clearness of his utterance, and the artistic variations of his pronunciation, will deny him the possession of a talent which, under due cultivation, might have ranked him among the foremost histrionic performers of our day.

And now before laying down his pen, conscious of having done his best to illustrate the virtues of two eminent Little Peddlingtonians, the chronicler will take this public opportunity of arowing his not absolutely disinterested motives in the composition of this record of their good qualities. He is unluckily in the position of such an applicant as he has suggested at the beginning of this chapter; and must shortly put himself through the ordeal of requesting a loan—of course on unquestionable security, and for a most advantageous object. It is his full intention to recompense his benefactor by revealing his identity—in strict confidence, be it understood—and by tearing off the veil that has hitherto shrouded his mysterious features to lay the onus of gratitude upon the provider of funds. To that one of the two subjects of this sketch who will send to the care of the Editor an undertaking to furnish the required loan, the chronicler binds himself to make this revelation. In the probable result of the spur of curiosity acting with equal stimulus on both, he will certainly have no objection to "winning on the double event."

THE GAMBETTA FAMILY.

THE DIFFICULTY OF PLAYING THE PART OF THE FATHER OF A GREAT MAN.

(From the resident Correspondent of the New York World.)

Paris, October 23d.

M. Gambetta's father is coming to Paris to end his days here. He will live with his daughter, Mme. Leris, whose husband holds a good place through the favour of her all-powerful brother. There is nothing more to bind the old man to the south. He went from Cahors to Nice on retiring from business, but now his wife and his wife's sister lie in the cemetery at Nice, and he is naturally anxious to get away from the place; besides, in Paris he will find it easier to play the difficult part of the father of a great man, which is just as hard as that of a great man's son. The old grocer has known what it is to have supplications at his counter for the favour of his boy. At one time the crowd of office-seekers thought this would be the shortest cut to what they wanted, but they were mistaken. The old man baffled them by his very simplicity. He told them the mere truth—that he understood nothing of his son's business, and that if he did understand it his son would be the last man in the world to let him interfere with it. So they troubled him no more. All his latter life has been an endeavour to atone for his original want of faith in "Léon's" destiny. As I have already said in the World, he tried to bind the boy to the counter and was only kept from doing so by the determination of his wife to give the lad a chance in Paris. It was a long time before he forgave her or himself or the boy. Now he sees that he was wrong, and he does penance in a self-effacement that is not without its dignity and charm. He takes ludicrous pains to guard himself against "compromising" Léon, and leads a solitary life, because he fears that the acquaintances of his choice might not always reflect much social credit on a young man who has his way to make in the world. As a grocer he would, of course, like to see other grocers, but what would the boy think? So at Nice he lived in a Paradise of cold respectability, and was as solitary as Tithonus in his clouds. He kept away from the café, where he might have met other grocers, and they did not care to have him at the club, so he went nowhere except now and then to the concerts and theatres in the hope of learning to amuse himself in the tasteful way becoming a father of a President of the Council. It was very noble, very self-denying, but of course he yawned through it all. He will probably find a little more amusement of a congenial sort in his new home. He will be less before the public than in a town like Nice, and the people of his household will, at least, understand him and do their best to promote his comfort. There is no reason why he should not live in Paris or anywhere else, for he has made his little fortune. The greater part of it is due to his own exertions, and for the rest he has been helped by the liberality of his son. He has been a saving man all his life, and now, they say, he is possessed by the odd notion that he must go on saving for Léon Gambetta. The old man has no confidence in politics as a way of earning a living—it is part of the profound peasant distrust of public life as "professional." Anything and everything may happen, so M. Gambetta saves for his son. The savings at their present state would probably keep the son for six months at his present rate of living, but that does not trouble the old man. He is like the la plus belle fille of the French proverb—he can give no more than he has. For that matter his way of money-making is not exactly favourable for the production of great fortunes. He has been a cheese-parer for eighty years, and quite lately, when his son was making his triumphal tour through the south of France and all Europe was ringing with his name, the father was quietly doing a little business in fruits between France and Italy. It was a snug affair; he was glad to take an order for thirty francs.

But, on the whole, he is a very respectable old man, and there is no need to make excuses for him. The ex-Dictator would be lucky if the same could be said of all his relations. But Mlle. Claire Gambetta, who sings at the concert-halls, must certainly be a thorn in the flesh to him. If she sang at good concert halls it might pass; but, as it is, she is to be heard in dirty little provincial caves of harmony of the third-class. You pay nothing to go in, but after the song the singer is allowed to come round with a hat. In this way a reporter of the Gaulois had an opportunity of talking with Mlle. Claire Gambetta. It was not so dear as interviewing Louise Michel, for Louise charges 10 francs an hour for talks, always paying in the money to the Communist exchequer, while Claire Gambetta will give you a few minutes for a few sous. She is described as being quite a Southern in type, small, very dark, with eyes of extreme vivacity and a voluble manner. She is Southern, too, in the way in which she said she did not wish to say anything about her family and the next moment, almost without solicitation, went off into a long account of her relationship with the great man. "Yes, I am the cousin of M. Léon Gambetta, cousin in the second degree. His grandfather was my father's uncle, but the two branches of the family have not been equally prosperous. The Gambettas of Cahors made their fortunes, my father died a plasterer. As long as he was alive I never asked my cousin for anything, but in 1876, when I was left to take care of my mother and an aunt, then I thought I would address myself to him. I came to Paris; my cousin had gone to see the King of Italy. I waited till he came back, and then I wrote to him to prove that I was no adventuress, who had merely taken the name of Gambetta. I sent with my letter all the family papers, all yellow and dog's-eared, just as I had them from my father's hands. He never replied and he never returned the papers." A second application was hardlly more fortunate.

M. Gambetta sent her thirty francs, with an intimation that it would be the first and last present from him. Some Deputies came to see her and talked of getting up a subscription, but finally gave it up for fear of scandalizing their powerful leader She had no other resource open to her and so she went to the music halls. She is coming to Paris. The proof of it must be a good deal more alarming to Gambetta than was the approach of the Germans during the war. He is probably following the tactics of M. Thiers. Thiers, they say, had a poor relation who used to keep a "table d'hote" and announced that she did so as "Sister of the President of the Council."

There was a sort of concert singer in the family of Napoleon the Third, but they were more prudent in dealing with her. She had only to announce a concert and they immediately bought her off.

But quite apart from M. Gambetta's feelings in the matter, one cannot understand why no French Abbey brings Mlle. Claire Gambetta at once in a chariot to the capital. Properly managed she is a mine of gold, and if Judic is worth 4,500 francs a representation, Mlle. Claire might be made to fetch almost as much again. With a little training in chic she could command the attendance of all Paris, say at the El Dorado. Who would dare not to go?

EDITOR'S TABLE

Our Packet Edition for the R.M.S. Trent will appear to-morrow. Steamer will sail on Monday.

The election of Colonel Iglesias as President of Peru caused everyone to ask yesterday—"how many Presidents has Peru now?" We really cannot say, perhaps half a dozen, certainly two. The Colonel, judging from his inaugural speech, appears to have the right stuff in him, and we sincerely hope he has, as his unfortunate country badly wants a man of the kind, to save it from the bluest of blue ruin. If the Peruvians mean to have peace, however, they must give up the Jules Favre bosh about "Not a foot of the sacred soil" &c.

A horrid murder was perpetrated in Plaza Libertad on Wednesday evening. Two men were quietly conversing under the trees when one suddenly drew a knife and stabbed the other several times; he then threw the knife into the grass and sat down coolly on a seat within a few yards of the dying victim!! A hackney coachman on the stand who was sitting inside his vehicle, saw the whole thing and soon brought a policeman to the scene of the tragedy. The murderer was still sitting quite calmly when the policeman collared him; he at first denied the crime, but the coachman swore to the whole of it. The victim expired shortly after.

The Boca is now the most fashionable part of town, as thousands of all classes, who have never seen an ocean steamer, go down by train and tram to look at the Italia, the first steamer of her size, (1,000 tons) that has ever entered there. Soon, let us hope, we shall see the 'big uns' of the Royal Mail and other lines alongside the same wharf. It is all a question of dredging. A grand banquet will be given on board the Italia to celebrate the event. There is talk of gold-medalling Mr. Huergo, and we think Mr. Piaggio deserves the same compliment, while the Captain of the Italia should get a present of an estancia on the Rio Negro of five square leagues at least. "Viva Italia!!"

The latest rumour from Montevideo is that the Brazilian Minister there intends to publish full particulars of the Paso Hondo affair, in case the Santos Government refuses his demands. We hope H.E., won't do anything of the kind, if he can possibly help it. The sickening tale as already told is bad enough.

Half town is off its head about the Belgrano Baths, and our subscribers out there are getting quite thin and lanky from excessive bathing. The ladies are taking to the water like the "ducks" they are, and a Paraguayan woman (all the Paraguayan women swim like fishes) has been engaged to teach them to swim. The drakes have already a swimming master.

The doughty "O F", who has so well defended Erin's cause against the vulgar and venemous attacks of the Nacional, is young Mr O'Farrell, a highly talented law student, son of an Irish resident. We thank him in the name of the Irish in the Plate. M. D. is a young Argentine, but we have not obtained permission to publish his name. He also has a unanimous vote of thanks.

The Police have notified the Masquerade ball people to be careful about indecent dresses, parodying religious and official attire, too much of the "furioso" element in the "can-can" etc; otherwise $3000 m/c fine for each offence—a "multa" that will pierce the hide of the most hardened sinner.

Mr James Carthy of Navarro has given the munificent donation of $5000 m/c to the Fahy Orphanage Building Fund.

There is a painful rumour in theatrical circles to the effect that the too famous Sarah Bernhardt has burst—of course we mean in a pecuniary sense. The world at large will recover the shock, with time, which heals all wounds. Sarah has always been a celebrity, but is now rather a bore. She still replies "vorrei e non vorrei" to all offers of an engagement in South America.

General Villegas telegraphs from Limay that his vanguard has had another stiff brush with 170 Indians. There were only 62 soldiers (20 of them Indians) to meet them; but Shahueque and his "braves" ran like red-shanks. The butchers bill was a cacique and five Indians killed and a few prisoners. Shahueque is represented as the essence of a coward, bolting at the first shot.

In Montevideo they are now preserving fish for the Buenos Aires market. The process keeps the fish fresh for a week, or more, which is more than sufficient for the purpose of selling it here. When the Southern Railway reaches Bahia Blanca we hope to have fresh fish sent in tanks to this market. The finest fish in the world are swarming in millions on our South Coast.

We received the Boletin of the Geographical Society yesterday. The most interesting thing in it is Dr. Brakenbush's account of his trip in Jujuy—a most readable chapter; no beating about brake or bush, but everything described 'currente calamo.'

We beg of our Montevidean colleagues, 'an they love us,' not to send us any more exchanges until they cease writing about the threadbare Misiones Question. 'Toujours perdrix ne vaut rien.'

The Montevidean Government is credited with the intention of throwing 100,000 new sovereigns into the sea, 'id est,' buying a war vessel in England with that sum.

We don't wish to say anything disrespectful of poets, or the state of their account with their bankers, but our colleague Puck declares that one of the sweetest pictures of domestic economy is a poet blacking a white stocking so that it wont show through the fissure in his boot.

There was a scare in the Colon Theatre on Thursday night. Part of the scenery caught fire, and some timid creatures in coats and trousers began to shout "Fuego!" For a moment it looked as if a terrible catastrophe was at hand through a rush for the doors; but the blaze was promptly extinguished, and a few cool heads amongst the audience succeeded in cutting short the fast-rising panic. The performance was then resumed. This affair is a warning to the Municipality. We hope it will be acted on.

General Sarmiento was cordially received in Montevideo on his arrival there yesterday morning. His health, they say, is much impaired by his editorial labours.

A Parisian philosopher has just died, leaving the following testament: "It is my will that any of my relatives who shall presume to shed tears at my funeral shall be desinherited. He who laughs most heartily shall be the sole heir." The scene at the grave was very amusing. All the near relatives displayed more or less mirthfulness, but the prize was awarded an unnatural old grandfather, who produced an artificial roar by the surreptitious use of laughing gas.

The proposal of Mr. Simpson, C.E., to finish the City Improvement Works has startled all of that ilk out of their slippers. He offers to do the work for one million pats less than the other bidders.

Queer. The Gambetta Funeral Committee have decided that the Marseillaise shall not be played at the ceremony to-morrow, as it would entail the playing of the Argentine Hymn also!!! This is a riddle we won't attempt to solve until we hear what Dr. Sarmiento has to say about it.

Mr. Daniel Carmody, Municipal Inspector of Gas, is to be installed in a new office, rented for the purpose, as the business of his department is becoming very heavy.

We are requested to contradict the account which some of our morning colleagues gave of a recent row at an auction, representing the presiding genius as having used his hammer on the head of a bidder, for having given him the lie direct. It was not so: The blow was with the fist, artistically and fairly given from the shoulder, in genuine English fashion.

Professor Fitzsimon, the talented Rector of the National College in Corrientes, has issued a most important 'Memoria' which we hope to review in a day or two. It contains most important suggestions for the much-needed reform in our system of secondary education.

Telegrams have been received announcing that the famous Peltzer case has been reopened before the Assize Court at Liege, owing to some informalities at the trial in Brussels.

"Tit for tat." A North American colleague says:—

An English paper complains that the Americans are too much inclined to make ridiculous jokes of the most solemn things. And we would remark in return that the English are somewhat given to making solemn things of the most ridiculous jokes.

The shield which the National Government is about to present to Gen. Osborn. U.S. Minister, for his part in the Treaty with Chile, will cost 6,000 francs. Gustave Doré is painting it.

Good gracious! The Tucuman Railway paid 84,000 pats. last year for water alone for its locomotives. The Government intends boring Artesian wells along the line to cut short this extravagant outlay on what usually costs nothing, or half-nothing.

We heartily join the Libertad in crying "down with the 'carros de mudanza' in the Corso!" They are worse than detestable, hideous, abhorrent. By all means, let them be replaced by the tram cars. Now, my Lord Mayor, here is a chance for you to earn fresh laurels. Put your heel on these dirty, unsightly carts in the Corso.

The average Arkansaw editor rarely fails to consult the intellectual tastes of his readers. The other day the Slick Rock Muscle, a weekly paper of well-known ability and great political influence, contained the following: "Our wife, who has been our companion and assistant for years, died day before yesterday, and we would give our numerous readers an interesting account of her life and public services, together with a neat obituary notice expressive of our grief, but as we have to condense and crowd in as much election news as possible this week, we must grapple business and dispense with pleasure until next week."

TREASURY BONDS.

To the Editor of the Standard.

Dear Sir,

"Bosh" is no doubt old, while 'kidneys' and 'Shakespeare' are certainly new and due to your correspondent M. C.; but what either one or the other has to do with the vexed questions of the 9 o/o Treasury Bonds is a riddle, the solution of which I for one cannot arrive at.

M. C's arguments in defence of the action of the Government are necessarily weak, since he commences by admitting that a "mistake" had been made, apparently forgetting that any one who is guilty of an oversight must take the consequence. Then he rambles on and invokes a spirit—a very convenient "alto y bajo" one—which did not think of changing the law whilst the Government were redeeming their bonds at a discount of 30 o/o or 40 o/o; on the same principle holders might reasonably enquire what guarantee they have that in case of political disturbances arising, and the Bonds going below par, this spirit will not take it into its head to imagine that another "mistake" has been made and insist on reverting to the old system of amortization by offer in conformity with the Law authorised by Congress.

"What is written is written"

Your obedt. servant.

THE F

AYER'S
Cherry Pectoral

Well-known all over the world for the prompt cure of the following diseases:

Coughs, Colds, Catarrhs, Inflammation of the Lungs, Bronchitis and Incipient Consumption, and also for the relief of those suffering from Chronic Consumption even in its Most Advanced Stage.

In the various affections of the Throat and Lungs, its employment in the first stage is always sure to arrest the disease, which makes Dr. AYER'S Cherry Pectoral a most desirable medicine to have always at hand. Those who have used this medicine knowing well its efficacy, declar they are never without it at home and never fail to recommend it to their friends suffering from any of the above diseases.

Medical men who know well the formula by which it is compounded, and the beneficial effects from its employment, never fail to prescribe Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

It is also frequently recommended by those of the Clergy who have used it. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is also remarkable in its Sanatory effects, arresting as it is sure to do, the ravages of epidemic affections of the Throat and Lungs, thus making it the most efficacious medicine which can be employed.

IT IS A LITTLE TROUBLE TO examine the pamphlet wrapped around each bottle of the true MURRAY & LANMAN'S FLORIDA WATER, so as to find the words "LANMAN & KEMP, New York," which are water-marked or stamped in pale letters on every page, but it is better to take this small amount of bother rather than to be imposed upon by a worthless counterfeit. Every leaf of the pamphlet around the genuine has these words in it, which though pale and faint, can be easily seen when held up to the light, and no FLORIDA WATER is genuine that does not have this test mark.

POMADE.

This is the best hair dressing known. It beautifies and strengthens, while most of the preparations now so numerous, injure the hair and cause it to fall off. In proof of this, notice the thousands of young men in this city who are losing their hair. If you would avoid this misfortune use Pomade de Vasuline. Thousands have used it with the best results and in no case is it injurious.

| National Bank Shares.... | 102½ |
| National 3 o/o..... | 72 |

The share market opened this morning with a bullish tendency. Speculators for a rise made a heavy push to advance prices, buying up at firm rates; but they subsequently let go at a shave. It is difficult to gauge the situation or tendency of the market, and operators were at a loss to understand the nature of operations effected this morning. It is generally thought and it has gradually become a fixed convict on that several heavy holders have sold their stock, and whilst many operators look forward to a large delivery of shares at the end of the month and to a fall in consequence, others opine that operators have oversold and must re-enter the market to buy.

Operations for cash opened at 103 firm, but closed at 102¾; close on 500 shares changed hands. Operations for the end of the month embraced about 1,600 shares; rates opened at 102½, were pushed to 103¼ and closed at 103. Speculation for the end of February rules very active and over 1,800 shares were sold; rates opened at 104, rose to 104¼ and closed at 104. Operations during official hours amounted to 3,930 shares.

Twenty thousand patacons gold were sold this morning at 26.30 for the end of the year. Many parties seem to be anxious to secure specie for long dates, as a measure of prudence, in case of a change in the present state of affairs. Others, however, are of opinion that the present rate is a high one, and that it will not be maintained. Be that as it may, the fact remains that specie is in demand for long dates, and that the rate is firm.

Several thousand National 5 o/o were sold this morning at 72 o/o.

Mr. Nicholas Mahon Maxwell, manager of the Rara Fortuna Silver Mine Company in Cordoba, was welcomed on 'Change to-day.

1,600 mestiza head of cattle, with 12 o/o novillos, were reported sold to-day at the rate of $200 % per head.

Maize is coming to the front again, in view of several purchases made of late to meet the pressing demands not only of this market but also of the producing districts of the camp. Special attention is called to the fact that maize is being at present bought in the Plaza to provide the cabanas of the camp with grain. Mr. Casey has bought a lot of maize in the Once for the town of Mercedes; it is supposed that the grain goes to Mr. Frias's splendid cabaña. This extraordinary feature of the maize market is the more apparent since maize is being bought in the Plaza Constitucion for Azul and other districts of the South. It is pretty clear that there is no stock of maize in the camp, as the demand for some comes from both North and South. The Barracas distillery, that had stopped working temporarily, has begun buying again; several thousand fanegas have been bought in both markets for the distillery at reserved rates. A splendid lot of Piadmontese maize was bought privately this morning for account of a manufacturer of "fideos" at the incredible price of $110 % per fanega. The market is very firm and rates are rising in view of the reduced stock on hand.

Advices from the camp state that the maize plantations are in a most unsatisfactory condition, especially near the suburbs of this city. The drought and very hot weather have had a most injurious effect on the cereal. In Marcos Paz, for instance, where the harvest last year surpassed all expectations, it has suffered immensely. Whoever travels on the Northern Railway, from this city to Las Conchas, will remark the bad state of the fields. Maize people have abandoned their great hopes of a large crop, as the yield this year is expected to reach only one half that of last season. Nevertheless, as the area under maize this year is at least double that of 1882, a very large crop may be anticipated. It has been remarked that the bad prospects of maize have led to some speculations in the export market. A well-known French firm has already signed important maize contracts, deliverable in April and May, at reserved rates. Another important contract is spoken of in the Barsdero, and the price agreed on is said to be higher than that paid for maize during April last year, when the export of the grain had assumed large proportions. The great anxiety of the chacareros is centred in the state of the weather. They want more water. The future of the crop depends on an abundant rainfall.

Although in the beginning of the season the brightest hopes were entertained with regard to the increase in the linseed crop of this year, these prognostications have been a delusive dream. The "ysoca," a species of worm, has made sad havoc in the fields. The Santa Fe Colonists, who cherished such glowing expectations, will probably only produce enough linseed to fill three large vessels. Unfortunately, this worm has made its appearance also in this province; and what with the ysoca, the drought and the heat, the chacareros only expect a yield of from 10 to 12 fanegas where they expected 20 fanegas at the beginning of the season. The harvest of the South of the Province promises splendid results. The advices from Azul, Pardo and other Southern districts could hardly be more satisfactory. Indeed, the South of this Province seems to be the privileged part of the Republic. The fact stands that the maize, linseed, colza, wool and wheat of the South fetch higher prices than the same products of the North. With regard to wheat, the quality of same is immensely superior to that of the North; and not long ago the corn men of the Once had occasion to admire lots of wheat from Pardo, giving 9 arrobes and 10 lbs to the fanega. There is something in the climate and in the soil of the South which throws all the vaunted fertility and advantages of the North into the shade.

The drawing of the Treasury Bills began to-day. The clerks of the Public Credit Office were hard at work all day. Our talented Minister of Finance, Dr Romero, may now exclaim with Julius Cæsar "alea jacta est." The numbers drawn are so numerous that we only publish part of same for the market—

Notice to Flax Growers.

The undersigned is now prepared to supply Flax Growers with specially constructed machine, with reversible gear for making tow or scutching the fine fibre.
Their suitability for the above purpose cannot be denied and their simplicity of working is such that a youth of 12 years can manage them with perfect safety. The machine is so constructed that the breaking and scutching processes are performed at the same time, so that there are in reality two machines combined in one, doing their work simultaneously.
The machine being constructed on wheels, can be easily moved to any part of the line field.
For cheapness the price will be so reasonable that it will come within the reach of all, and for durability and completness in doing their work none has as yet been offered with such advantages to cultivator of Flax.
For further informations please apply personally or by letter at my address.

Venderemos por un precio que exceda a la infima base fijada y al contado el esplendido campo ubicado en el partido de Suipacha conocido por La Laguna de los Leones.

Linda este campo al N.O. y N.E. con campos de la testamentaria de D. Pablo Martinez, por el Sud con la gran estancia del Sr. D. Mariano Bernal y por el S.O. con los Srs. Enrique Diehl y el Dr Leonardo Rodriguez Gaete.

Tiene este campo un esplendido edificio que constituye la estancia, muchos puestos de material, ranchos etc.

El costado que linda con el Sr Diehl esta alambrado en una estencion de 20 cuadras lineales con 6 alambres y postes de Eucalubay a 7 varas de distancia y con dos varillas entre poste y poste.

La riquisima clase de los pastos, su ubicacion y proximidad a la Capital, asi como la circunstancia de que todas las poblaciones, edificios, alambrados y potreros van por muertos hacen que la base fijada de $1000 m/c la cuadra sea tan infimas que es sobre ella que llamamos muy especialmente la atencion de las personas que deseen adquirir campo flor casi de regalo.

Los titulos son perfectos, por planos y otros datos a nuestra casa San Martin 51.

As the full number of animals to be covered has not yet been completed, the register still remains open at the office of the Secretary of the Committee, Moreno 146, it being understood that, in conformity with art. 9 of the rules, preference will be given to animals according to the dates on which they were registered.

CHARGES:

MARES—The charges for each mare admitted by the Committee to the sires

RIO NEGRO and NAUQUEN

are as follows: Mares of the same blood 15 pats; mestizas 20; criolas 30.

Light draught mares will be considered as of the same blood as 'El Rio Negro,' and heavy draught mares of the same blood as 'El Naunquen.'

COWS—The charges for each cow admitted to the bulls are as follows: Cows of same breed 10 pats, mestiza 15.

Pilcomayo and Bermejo

Owners of animals must also pay $16 m/c per day for keep of such as require grain, and 45 per day for grazing animals.

The PEDIGREES of the blood stock are as follows:

SIRES

EL RIO NEGRO—Pure bred Trakehnen sire, imported per steamer Frankfurt, under the name of 'Yung Hausneyer,' by 'Paulino de Pritter' and 'Hausneyer,' the former of 'Erlwan' and the latter of 'Antinor.'

EL NAUQUEN—Pure bred Suffolk Punch sire, imported per English steamer Strabo under name of 'Chief of the East,' by 'Tiptop' 1867, by 'Cupbearer' 716 by 'Cordes Marquis,' by Catlins Royal Duke' and 'Princess' 1096, by 'Warrior' 1353 and 'Royal Maggy.'

Value of Coins.

Regarding the value of the coins in circulation in the Interior, the National Executive Power has issued the following decree:

Finance Office of the Nation
B. Aires, Jan. 4th, 1883

Having seen the petition in which the merchants of Tucuman ask that the value of the Bolivian 'chirola' be fixed according to Nat. currency, and in view of the report by the 'Contaduria General,' and considering:

That said coins have been valued by successive decrees according to their metallic value in accord with the alternatives of silver in universal currency, and accordingly said value has been received and delivered by the fiscal offices of the Nation.

That the resolution of the 2nd Dec. 1882 establishing the price for buying foreign silver, for re-coinage, will not interfere with said value.

That the difficulties which the petitioners feared cannot occur, since they refer to the currency they have, and it has a legal, valued circulation.

That all the obligations assigned to the Bolivian dollar in the different provinces of the Interior has always carried explicitly the determined value that in each contract is understood by the phrase 'Bolivian dollar,' and its metalic conversion corresponding according as the case may be.

That though in the provinces they have had Banks of emission regulated according to the value of the Bolivian dollar, it has not been at all uniform, since their notes during the period of their convertibility are not equal to the Bolivian dollar of two cuatros, since in San Juan, Cordoba and Santa Fe they emit it at the value of $fts. 0.75, whilst in other places the value of the 4 Chirolas is issued at 0.14 c. fts or 0.56 fuertes, following the monetary system of each place. There are even some banks that issue the name of Bolivian dollar notes of $f.0.75 cent in one branch whilst in another branch of same bank they are issued at 0.56 c. fuertes.

That they should not confound the various unities that under the name of 'Bolivians' have circulated in the Interior, composed of a number of moneys of fixed value, with the Bolivian dollar called 'Efectivo' which is composed of two cuatros, withdrawn from circulation by decree 6 June 1876, but has been circulating privately, causing the decree of the 31st Oct. to be issued.

That the meeting called by the Contaduria settles the case in question, and all others of the same nature, and the question of fixing the value of moneys in legal circulation or tolerated in the country can be considered aranged.

By these rules and in conformity with the previous reports, the above question must be arranged by the decree of the 2nd Dec. 1882. Let this be made known to the Supreme Government of Tucuman with transcription of the Report of the Contaduria, and let it be published.

The fact that Messrs HOWARD have sold upwards of

"Sets of Harrows" is a sufficient proof of their superiority and excellence.

These Harrows have "always" gained the First Prize in competition with others.

Several sizes are in Stock.
